

Dear Farm Supporters,

These next few sentences summarize the vegetables and costs of our 2023-2024 winter CSA, but if you are not a returning winter CSA member, you should read the detailed information packet to decide if you want our foods. Cold-grown greens and other savory vegetables are among the most delicious anywhere in the world, and within 3 weeks we start planting these fields for our 27th year of joyous winter farming at Even' Star!

- The winter CSA spans a 6-month period. We harvest and deliver 18 weeks, and build in 8 off-weeks for holidays and/or severe weather. The math details appear later in this packet. The first winter delivery is scheduled for October 26.
- We are getting more digital. You don't need a printer to complete the "paperwork" and join (see below).
- IMPORTANT: YOUR VACATIONS VS. PRODUCE DELIVERIES: If you know of your travel plans 3 days or more before a delivery, you can easily get a credit for the skipped delivery. You will need to both A. CALL THE FARM CELL AND SPEAK DIRECTLY TO BRETT, and also B. EMAIL US WITH "CSA DELIVERY AND VACATION" in the subject line. Give us your name, exact pick-up site, and dates of travel. We will email you back with a credit, redeemable (your choice) towards the next year's summer or winter CSA, for future farmers' market purchases, and/or towards doubling up in some future week.
- Cost per week of the main produce share is $36. Payment for the entire subscription must occur before the season starts in late October/early November. The per-season subscription cost for the full share is $648 (either all in one check, OR you may choose to split the payment into a 2023 $324 check and a Jan. 1, 2024 $324 check) to cover the farm costs of 18 weeks of deliveries, running from late October/early November until April or early May. We split the payments primarily to keep the vegetables affordable and to reduce abrupt burdens on CSA members' bank accounts. But both checks must be submitted with this application. Members preferring to pay by credit card may do so on the farm website (www.evenstarfarm.org) and use Paypal. Since Paypal charges us 3.5% for these transactions, the credit card cost for 18 delivery weeks is $$648 \times 1.035 = \670.68 .
- Sorry, but full shares only for the upcoming winter. We are in process of re-working our annual CSA choices, and may offer $\frac{3}{4}$ winter shares next August. If the full share might be too much for you, please ponder splitting a membership with a friend, and alternate your pick-up weeks.
- We need the pick-up site, cell #, and email address of CSA members, so if you join by credit card/ Paypal, please fill out and email back to us the registration form at the end of this info packet!
- The winter CSA focuses on more than 30 varieties of greens (for salads and for cooking), 8 varieties of savory root vegetables, fresh herbs, and 4 varieties of sweet potatoes, plus occasional canned foods that we prepare with our summer crops for the winter CSA members. We do not grow summer crops like cucumbers or tomatoes in our winter greenhouses; heating these costs too much and is environmentally wrong.
- Our flocks of laying hens are pretty happy, with predators currently at bay. The yes-egg option costs an additional $117, for 18 dozens (1 dozen per delivery week). A separate check works best for us; late-joining members will be wait-listed to be yes-egg. In contrast, the main produce share has plenty of openings, especially before October.
- For coordinators: At delivery sites with fewer than 10 members, the coordinator homeowner gets 50% off on the cost of the main share. Sites with 10+ members get the produce share free.

We detail the winter CSA better in the following information and registration packet.

Welcome to the Even' Star Organic Farm "Orion Rising" winter subscription service!

This information packet contains an introduction to our own farm, detailed coverage of the winter foods and services that we offer, the subscription contract, and the registration form.

If you decide you want to join, we urge you to act quickly and send us your signed contract, registration form (at the end of this packet) and payment as soon as possible. We have a limited number of spots available and are on a first-come, first-served basis; the winter harvests usually sell out. We have led the mid-Atlantic region in winter cropping starting in 1997. We are among the most experienced local CSA farms that grows all of its own foods. Please Google us to verify. But winter weather caps the number of families we can feed.

Please also note that the "yes-egg" option, in which pre-paid subscribers get a dozen great free-range eggs weekly, is available on a first-come, first-served basis. We only have enough hens for about 35 families to get the pre-paid yes-egg option.

HOW TYPICAL COMMUNITY-SUPPORTED AGRICULTURE (CSAs) AND FARM SUBSCRIPTIONS WORK

Farm subscriptions and CSA's are atypical for American consumers. CSA's are based on the need of many consumers to get great local foods or to have a close and trusting relationship with the people that grow and harvest their food. Rational people have little faith in the global food system and dislike eating so much bland food produced and processed by unknown hands, or sprayed/fumigated with questionable chemicals, in places far, far away. Local farmers need knowledgeable, quality-oriented customers to whom we sell directly. It is better to by-pass the price-inflating middlemen that don't really care about food safety, who pay farmers too little, and who charge consumers too much.

In traditional farm subscription services and CSAs, the member pre-purchases (per season) the diversity of foods that the farm grows, and then every week either goes to the farm for pick-up or gets a delivery nearer to home. Some CSA farms also require the consumers to regularly work on the farm. In most CSAs, the consumers also share some of the risks of farming: if horrible droughts, floods, or other disasters hit the farm and yields plummet to zero, the consumer doesn't get their food and doesn't get any money back.

We are professional and deeply experienced farmers. We dislike other CSA farms' idea of shared crop risk and have never included shared risk in the Even' Star Organic Farm Subscription Service. Barring a major fire, a lightning strike to us or the crew, or similar sudden death, we will continue to feed our CSA members really well. For 23 years our CSA customers have received most of the diverse, flavorful, and safe produce that we grow. The COVID crisis had us prioritize even more our members: 98% of all we grew in the pandemic years went to our CSA members; currently 94% is eaten by our CSA members. You deserve such dependability and we value your loyalty more than we can express. We at Even' Star Organic Farm treasure reviews posted online by our members since 2005. We have 16 straight years of 5-Star ratings on the independent website LocalHarvest. These and the great meals (on your tables and on ours) reward all the hard workdays.

Many “CSA” farms are now buying produce elsewhere and re-packing it for retail customers. Examples in our region abound. Even’ Star Organic Farm refuses to pull that trick. We fear conventional pesticides too much. When California organic mega-packers have a contamination scandal, we remain confident in our more limited menu of crops but our superior quality-control and hygiene. We care too much about what CSAs are really supposed to be: trusted food growers for their community and their CSA members. Our job is to grow really safe, superbly flavorful, state-of-the-art seasonal foods. We don’t fake local production while re-packaging unsafe foods from far-away mega farms. If you join a different CSA, please be sure they actually grow what they claim.

We do not require any farm work from members.

EVEN’ STAR COVID RESPONSES, AND THE FUTURE

The two Even’ Star Organic Farm owners and managers have advanced degrees in the biosciences. We responded fast and thoroughly to the COVID crisis, mandating mask use before governments did so. The family reached 100% fully vaccinated in early May 2021; our workforce reached 100% fully vaccinated in June 2021. The workers currently isolate off-farm with even just a sniffle. Christine and I will continue to be hyper-vigilant and cautious with our, your, and our workers’ safety. New workers must be vaccinated and boosted before starting employment. Since hiring our first employees in 1997, safety for our workers, our family, and our customers is paramount.

REQUIRED CROP AVERAGING

Farming is rarely a predictable art. A negative part of all CSAs is that variable weather force all CSA farms into averaging. This means that not all delivery weeks are created equal, nor do the individual crops’ harvests equal each other in value per week. In some weeks our subscribers get less than we’d like, and other weeks are super-bountiful. Our farm keeps track of these “light weeks” vs. “heavy weeks”, and per subscription season our CSA members have always gotten more heavy weeks than light harvests. But accepting averaging before the season starts will help you adapt to the weather problems and delayed harvests that often occur in the farm world. At Even’ Star Organic Farm, we are proud that we have always met or exceeded the value of every season of CSA shares, not every single week but certainly when adding up all the deliveries that make a subscription season. We have an equal history of never secretly buying wholesale or other farms’ produce to re-package and compensate for disastrous local weather or poor planning.

DETAILS ABOUT THE FOODS AND SERVICES OF THE EVEN’ STAR ORGANIC FARM SUBSCRIPTION SERVICE

We currently offer three subscriptions annually:

1. The “Orion Rising” Winter Share: from late October or early November until late April or early May. Covered in detail here.
2. The High Summer Share: from early July until about early October. Not detailed here.
3. The 6- or 8-month Farmers’ Market Option Share (Spring-Autumn). Not detailed here.

Our winter share is about the diverse bounty of choice crops rationally grown in the cool months. We do NOT try to grow truly out-of-season crops like hot-house tomatoes in winter; these would take a prodigious amount of fuel to keep the greenhouses that warm. Instead, we routinely grow and harvest about 180 cases weekly of greens and savory root vegetables through most of every winter. We succeed at winter farming because a) many old-fashioned crops have good amounts of cold hardiness if properly managed; b) since 1992, we have bred even more freeze tolerance into the winter crops, and we save and replant this seed, year after year; c) we have winter-cropped since 1984 in 4 different US states, a record of experience, accumulated knowledge, and skill that few can match; d) we have three large greenhouses for lettuces, salad mix, chard, and herbs, and these are food reserves even when snow or ice blanket the outside crops; and e) we dress really, really warmly. Winter farming is much nicer on us and on the crew than is working outdoors every day in the torrid heat waves of August. Winter farming is why we chose these 104 acres. Winter farming is our joy.

Unlike the few other winter CSAs on the Eastern seaboard, we do not buy goods from far away, repackage them, and then pretend that local agriculture is being supported. We grow our own foods and strictly these go to the CSA members. This guarantees both your safe and non-chemical eating and our own extreme standards for food quality.

We email our subscribers each week to list what we are harvesting for you, with suggested cooking approaches and recipes. These emails are your easy way to learn how to best store and enjoy the diverse foods that we grow. We also offer crop descriptions, a very large number of recipes, and a detailed food storage guide in our cookbooks. These are available from Amazon, eg., The Farmer's Kitchen. The most recent edition is the very well-reviewed The Farmers Market Cookbook.

If you enjoy diverse greens and other cold-grown vegetables, you will not find a better CSA. If you dislike different greens, you will not find a worse winter CSA. Please do not sign up for the winter share if you are ambivalent about receiving a lot of salad and cooking greens, and lower amounts of savory root vegetables. Members who love the summer crops much more and who want to skip the winter CSA should do so. You will be emailed the 2024 summer registration forms first (in Jan. or Feb.), ahead of any new people from the waiting lists, and so will not lose your seniority.

The crops that we grow, harvest, and provide cooking suggestions for every winter include:

5 kinds of baby lettuces, usually not as heads but added to Mesclun mix (salad mix)
smooth kale and Tuscan kale	baby bok choy
2 types of Tokyo "Napa-type" cabbage	tender collard greens
arugula	4 kinds of turnips
mizuna	Swiss chard
Chinese thick-stem mustard	English cress
heirloom dill	daikon-type radishes
curly American mustard	baby pac choi
tenderleaf	parsley
Egyptian onions and/or scallions	Tokyo Bekana tender cabbage
Sai Sai radish	French sorrel
watermelon radish	China Rose radish
purple Siberian kale	Fun Jen Chinese cabbage
napini	herbs of Provence
cilantro	4 types of sweet potatoes (harvested in autumn)
pea tendrils	other outdoor-grown greens and experimental crops

We blend our select greens crops to make our very popular mesclun mix (baby salad and sandwich greens), stir-fry blend, robust salad mix, mixed mustards (spicy), and mixed kales (mild). We intensively use our 3 large greenhouses, but many of our crops harvested in winter come from our best adapted open-field crops.

We make outstanding seasoning salts from our summer-grown herbs. Berries, tomatoes, and other vegetables from our voluminous summer harvests are canned and saved for the CSA to supplement the greens when the winter weather is extreme (eg., our blackberry-strawberry jam and our tomato sauce). We grow foods traditional around the world that are at their absolute best when every night freezes. We double-wash most of our greens and bag them, so they are ready to use and easy for busy members.

All winter CSA boxes are ½ bushel. Typical deliveries might be:

Early December:

- mesclun mix (in 1 bag) for about 6 salads
- Fun Jen greens for salad
- Sweet mild Sai Sai radishes with tops
- 1 large bag smooth kale
- Baby turnips
- 1 bag arugula
- baby bok choy

early March:

- 1 gallon heirloom Swiss Chard
- 1 gallon bag stir-fry blend
- Lots of Mesclun mix
- Tender mild Siberian kale
- Intense cilantro
- 4 pounds Beauregard sweet potatoes

Early April:

- Pea tendrils
- Baby lettuces or mesclun
- stir-fry greens blends
- Swiss Chard
- Mixed kales
- Napini
- Heirloom dill

THE ROLE OF LIVESTOCK ON OUR FARM

We are primarily a vegetable, fruit, herb, and flower farm. But we also strongly respect the ancient agricultural tradition of integrating livestock with many acres of pasture and vegetable production. We adamantly free-range our chickens. We believe that humane treatment of farm animals is the best moral path for people in our profession, and argue that factory livestock production is a travesty in every sense and should not even be called “farming”. We are much closer in ethics to the animal rights advocates than to those “farmers” who defend concentrated animal feedlot operations. Our hens joyously eat all the crops that aren’t pretty enough for our human customers. Our hens supply small amounts of manure that we spread to help the next season’s crop plants thrive. Our hens eat lots of insects and grubs, many of which would otherwise eventually find the crops. And our hens provide delicious eggs to our family and to many customers. Please note that that our livestock are the only part of Even’ Star that is not in the certified organic system. We cannot access fresh organic grains in our region, and hence have a superb custom blend of conventional feed ground by our local Mennonite feed mill. Our hens get tons of our certified organic pasture and produce, but they also need some supplemental grains for protein. Incidentally, you haven’t lived until you have seen a flock of hens descend on #2 watermelons, or on bushels of blemished winter greens. Real farming, real livestock, real love and care.

SHOULD I BE A “YES-EGG” OR A “NO-EGG” SUBSCRIBER?

(Vegan members should skip this. We really value our vegetarian and vegan members, and only a minority of all members will be able to receive the yes-egg share. The yes-egg option is usually wait-listed for late joiners)

Based on farm needs and on the continual requests of CSA members, we have enough free-ranging hens on the farm for only about 35 winter CSA families to get a dozen great eggs every delivery week. Our hens are fed a special grain and vitamin mix with no hormones or animal byproducts added. They are the ONLY part of the farm that is not certified organic. But they get an awful lot of vegetables and pasture as well, and happily forage outside every waking hour. The eggs are as good as can be. Except for predators, free-ranging is great.

Those of you who want and get the “yes-egg” option will find a cooler at your pick-up site every week into which we put the eggs reserved for yes-egg, pre-paid CSA members. You will need to send a separate check for $117 (for 18 dozens). Please specify on your registration form that you are “yes-egg”. The separate check is necessary because the yes-egg option will sell out early, and we’ll need to return or destroy the checks of folks who missed that 35-family limit.

NUMBER OF DELIVERY WEEKS AND THE COST TO SUBSCRIBE

Experience counts. We winter-cropped in northern California in the 1980’s, have been winter-cropping on the East Coast since 1987, and for decades have successfully and publicly expanded what farms can do to feed many people even in the freezing months. Our winter subscription period is based on long-term weather forecasts; in the coming winter it will span from late October or early November through April or May of 2024 (last delivery depends on how harsh a mid-winter we get). Since 2004, we have built 6-8 off-weeks into each cold-season CSA to handle the winter holidays, blizzards, and ice storms. Off-weeks are weeks in which we do not deliver and which are not paid for by the CSA members when we calculate what we must charge for the whole season. This season we are subtracting out 8 weeks: 2 for the holidays around the New Year, 6 for extreme weather or cloudy/snowy periods of low plant re-growth, during which you’ll not receive a delivery. You will be called or emailed in advance of such off-weeks, and you do not pay for them when we calculate the total subscription cost. Hence there are 18 weeks of deliveries in the upcoming cold-season subscription service.

We do not charge for delivery, nor is there any “fuel surcharge”.

The per-week cost for our winter subscription service is $36. The 18 weeks of deliveries times $36 equals $648. We regret the need to raise this cost by a dollar, since we hate inflation passionately, but our labor and other costs have risen so much more. In contrast with the summer subscription period, in which subscribers need to send one check for the whole period, you may split the total cost into two checks of $324 each. Subscribers must send both checks with their registration form and contract, but date the second check for January 1, 2024. This covers the main yes-vegetable, no-egg subscription. Please inform us if you switch banks after you sign up, so that we don’t accidentally bounce your second check. Members wishing to pay all in one check may do so.

We ask you to note this in your check book/accounting and on your calendar. This split payment helps both our tax accounting and those potential customers for whom a single large payment, covering a six-month stretch of food deliveries, would be burdensome. The two-check option also stems from our guiding principle of keeping our foods affordable. Registration packets that do not include the two checks stall our busy field schedules and we cannot quickly process any applications that are incomplete. Streamlined bookkeeping and paperwork gets us back out to the fields, where we belong.

HOW DELIVERIES WORK: PICK-UP SITES AND NEIGHBORHOOD COORDINATORS

We organize the deliveries with the neighborhood system. In this kind of subscription service, the customer can stay close to home by picking up their pre-assembled box of foods at the house (or business) of a neighborhood coordinator. And the farmer does not have to travel every week to the home of every single subscriber. This method also lets us avoid asking you to pay a delivery surcharge, an unpleasant cost of many delivery services and even of CSAs. The responsibilities of each neighborhood coordinator include a) having a space available that is protected from deep freezes (e.g., inside the home, in a closed-in porch, etc.) into which we can place their neighbor's boxes; b) reliably being home or otherwise letting us access that drop-off space on delivery days, typically Thursdays; c) similarly being home or otherwise letting neighbors pick up their food conveniently on the delivery day; d) neatly keeping subscribers' egg cartons and empty, folded-up boxes from the prior week's delivery in a convenient place, such that we may re-use and recycle efficiently; and e) helping us to communicate with customers if extreme weather problems loom. Pleasant and reliable neighborhood coordinators are absolutely central to this approach and save time and money for everyone. Subscribers also need to know that we cannot deliver to one or two isolated people. Delivery sites are detailed on the registration form.

At delivery sites with fewer than 10 members, the coordinator homeowner gets 50% off on the cost of the main share. Ten or more members: the coordinator gets the main share for free.

Subscribers need to be aware that we do not pay our coordinators, and that most members pick up at a home and not at a business. You have a 24 hour span in which to pick up your foods. The coordinators make every effort to ease your pick-ups, but cannot be held liable, for example, if a subscriber stumbles on an ice patch in January while grabbing his or her box of vegetables. By joining our CSA, subscribers are accepting this waiver of coordinator liability.

ON PACKAGING RE-USE

We adamantly re-use as critical to both be better environmental stewards and to save money. We re-use the waxed cardboard boxes in which subscription deliveries get to you. We need you to return the waxed share boxes (folded flat along their creases, not left open, for easier transport) to your neighborhood coordinator rather than throwing them out. Please also return empty egg cartons and our canning jars. We cannot recycle any of the plastic bags into which we package your pre-washed greens. Lack of 100% re-use of cardboard boxes by customers forces us to buy many hundreds of boxes for subscribers (and to absorb those thousands of dollars into subscription costs). Re-use saves both land and our and your money. Winter subscribers get most of their foods in plastic bags, though we use both a) more heavy-duty paper bags and b) truly biodegradable Biobags. Clear plastic petrochemical ones we use rarely can be washed out and hung to drain and dry by you, for ecologically and economically wise re-use, but health department regulations and our farm's policy of prevention of any microbial threats combine to prohibit the farm from re-using any of these clear plastic bags for other deliveries. The Biobags are single-use and truly degrade in compost bins and landfills. So please do not return any plastic bags to us: use them at home, and stop buying bags.

HOW DO I GET STARTED?

If you want to subscribe, please completely fill out the brief registration form and the contract and send these with one check for $648 or the two checks for $324 each to Even' Star Organic Farm, 48322 Far Cry Road, Lexington Park, MD 20653. The yes-egg option needs a separate check for $117. Members preferring to pay by credit card may do so on the farm website (www.evenstarfarm.org) and use Paypal. Since Paypal and the web host charge us 3.5% for these transactions, the credit card cost for 18 delivery weeks is $$648 \times 1.035 = \670.68 ; the yes-egg option is an additional $121.09.

If you decide to subscribe, please digitally save this whole informational packet. It answers most questions that subscribers may have. You don't need to return these info pages to us. Please call the farm owner and manager, Brett, if you have any questions whatsoever (301.481.6832).

2023-24 WINTER CSA SUBSCRIPTION CONTRACT: Terms and Conditions

RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF EVEN' STAR ORGANIC FARM

We will provide you with weekly goods averaging $36 in total value. These goods will be vegetables, fruits, flowers, or other products of this farm. We will provide you with an assortment of goods in each box. These are solely of our choosing and we cannot substitute for individual subscribers.

Subscription period runs from late October/early November 2023 to April/early May 2024. During that span we will provide 18 deliveries, with 8 off-weeks to compensate for adverse weather, holidays, or other emergencies. You do not pay for the 8 off-weeks, and we will notify you of off-weeks in advance of delivery times. If a serious accident, disastrous weather event, or similar act of God prevents us from harvesting or delivering beyond the scope of the above 8 off-weeks, we may extend the subscription period past May 15, 2024; we may refund the balance of the subscription fees; or we may have to cancel the subscription altogether, solely of our choosing. This is not meant to cover normal bad weather such as blizzards or mild hurricanes, but rather fatal or debilitating ones such as tornadoes or lightning strikes, as well as major farm deaths or accidents.

Deliveries to the Washington, DC area will be on Thursdays whenever possible. If weather or other adverse conditions preclude these days, we will deliver on a different day and will notify subscribers of the change as soon as possible.

We urge subscribers and the neighborhood coordinators to work cooperatively to make pick-ups easy. Should consistent or major conflicts arise between a subscriber and a coordinator, or between the farm and a CSA member, we reserve the right to change any subscriber's pick-up location or to cancel their subscription altogether. Refunds are solely at the discretion of Even Star Farm LLC.

RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF OUR SUBSCRIBERS

The total fee for the 2023-24 winter season is $648. Yes-egg options cost an additional $117 each. Payments for the main vegetable CSA may be split into two checks of $324 each, one dated now, the other to Jan. 1, 2024; members may also pay all at once, or by credit card (slightly higher payment for the latter). There is no delivery fee, nor fuel surcharge, but pick-up of the weekly goods needs to be consistently at one of the designated neighborhood drop-off points or from the farm directly. You will be notified of your regular delivery day and neighborhood pick-up point. You have 24 hours to pick up your foods.

Subscribers have no obligation to work at or for the Farm.

Subscribers need to return their empty delivery boxes to their neighborhood pick-up point each week.

By signing this contract or by tendering payment to join the CSA, subscribers are agreeing not to litigate against their coordinator should any accident occur while subscribers are picking up their goods. Subscribers need to respect the schedules and home lives of their neighborhood coordinators and not attempt pick-ups at really late or really early hours without the prior agreement of the coordinator; acceptable times are 7 am until 8 pm.
